Goals of this Program

The basic premise of Controlled Party Dispersal is to view underage drinking parties as crime scenes and approach the incident as if it were a crime in progress. The goal is to target the adult enabler, process the offenders and the scene to build a prosecutable case. The processing of an underage drinking party is a standard and systematic investigation designed to elicit all of the information necessary for a prosecutable case. Support for controlled party dispersal operations ultimately lies with your community. The challenge is to identify where the support is and work within the community to maximize their support. This presentation is designed around best practices to ensure public safety and officer safety by containing the underage drinking party and dispersing the participants in an organized and efficient manner.
